Read the passage below and answer questions 31-40

When going to Kisumu Benson could not help to notice the various types of advertisement on matatu and billboards. They were very interesting and captivating. One of them was about milk. The billboard said that it had calcium protein and vitamins meaning it was yummy, for teens and for men respectively. Another one which excited him the most was from a lorry advertising about alcohol. It said stand tall and slowed that the bottle containing the alcohol was as tall as famous varsity plaza building in Kisumu. Also it said refresh your root. He wondered what that meant.

When he arrived at his home after the visit to Kisumu, he told his mother of what he had seen. The father was not surprised since he is the one who took him for that tour. His mother was pleased that her son had learnt a lot and could still remember every single detail. She promised her son that she would organise another tour and take Benson herself

Make up can transform you. If applied in the right manner and amount.

Every individual has a skin type therefore the make up needs are all different and special. First all there is the oily skin. The right foundation for this skin type should be oil free. People with dry skin need foundation that contain moisturizers to prevent their faces from dry conditions. Oil based foundations are the best for this type of skin. You should avoid powder as they will only dry up your skin further making it look dull, flaky and lifeless.

Foundations play a major role in reducing the appearance of pimples, spots and scars. Do not apply foundations excessively as it will only lead to having the pancake look instead of a clean natural look. Select foundations that go with your natural skin tone to give you a good look. It takes time and patience and the right tools to help you perfect your looks.
