The deadline by the Kenyan government to repatriate all Somalis back to their country and have Daadab refugee camp closed cannot be met. A special envoy on the matter has said. Kenya had vowed to close the camp which is home to some 500000 refugees by end of November this year.

IGAD's special envoy on Somalia Muhammed Affey said the closure of the camp may delay after some of the refugees declined to enlist themselves for the repatriation exercise.

Affey says majority of the refugees have expressed skepticism and reluctance to go back to their country as they believe that their security will not be guaranteed as it is now in the camp. He painted a picture of a desperate population that is ready and willing to pay the price just to remain in the camp.

"There are serious teething problems that the refugees need to be assured of before they are repatriated back to Somalia. They say the country is volatile and not safe for human inhabitation. All the respective agencies involved need to guarantee them their security," he told XNews in an interview.

According to the former Wajir South MP it would be difficult to convince the refugee to return home since the essential infrastructure is yet to be established in their mother's country to facilitate a safe repatriation.

Since the repatriation exercise was announced last year, tens of thousand of refugees have been making the journey back home after decades in the camp. However, Somalis born in Dadaab refugee camp say they are distraught at Kenya's plan to forcibly repatriate them. However, recently a Human Rights watch found that repatriation of Somali's refugees from Dadaab refugee camp in Kenya failed to meet recommended international standards for voluntary return.

From ashes and gabbage to a lucratic table. From the periphery into the city. In the city got an opportunity in a very junior institution. Her few words earned her a good name. Besides that the end results of what she was doing was ever eminent. No doubt her work. Whoever, cannot appreciate it can only appreciate for death.

She rose gradually to an extent that she was popular among the three pillars. The popularity cheated and misguided her. Marrow became uncase and not ready to listen to the boses. As a result of the sour relationship she opted out. Indeed it was unstoppable thing. The most unfair thing was she didn't take her pay.

Due to her dedication and commitment, she was only out for two weeks fortunately she got a better space. The space was so admirable that all bridegroom and bride would admire to glue to. She glued to the new station. In her new station she also received favour from the three pillars. Everybody admired to be served by her. She was a teacher for standard two. She taught more than eighty pupils. The reason that all pupils wanted to be taught by her. Instead of the parents complaining, they insisted that if their children will not be handled by her automatically, they would be out of the system.

Since there was no any other option, it prevailed she progressed very well. From her doings, she ascended to be the third chief executive officer. Surely she was admirable. Nothing changed her, her total commitment increased.
